Opening Reception:

Saturday, August 30th, 6-8pm

My Chemical Romance seeks to explore a series of works operating at the intersection of art and science. Often acting as both experiment and document, the works of Mikkel Carl, Eric Davis, Rachael Milton, and Santiago Taccetti unfold narratives between constrained variables. Within the scientific parameters of possibility, the works adopt a familiar set of aesthetics as a vehicle for critique and exploration, commenting upon the state of their contemporaries as well as the economy they all exist within.

The exhibition will run concurrently with a show of new works by Jesse Stecklow at 727 Warren St.
